BlueCotton Warehouse - Production

Think about your t-shirt drawer and all of the shirts you never wear but can't throw away. Do you know why you can't throw them away?

Because they represent a special time you don't want to let go! We believe that t-shirts mark the memories of our life connecting us to people and special moments, and we get to be part of those special moments every day for customers all over the country. How awesome is that?

BlueCotton is a growing screen print, direct-to-garment and embroidery decorator located in Bowling Green, Kentucky! We've been in business for 30 years and transitioned through the COVID season with zero days of closure.

We're looking for committed team members to join the BlueCotton team as warehouse production associates during this exciting time in our organization. We have big plans for our customers, employees and the future of BlueCotton and will only invite individuals to the team who are excited about what excites us. Are you a person of character and integrity? Are you looking for stability in a positive work environment? Are you interested in taking on responsibility and seeing a task through to its completion? If so, we'd love to talk to you!
